New Meat Market

Messrs. Louis Ratcliff and Wren Sterling have opened a market for sale of beef and porks, in the Eph Nunnery old store, formerly the Welch market, and will endeavor at all times to sell choice cuts as cheap as consistent. They are experienced butchers and have a neat, well screened market and invite the patronage of the public to whom they promise a fair deal. (adv.)

Whereas default has been made in the payment of the indebtedness secured by a deed of trust executed by E. R. Coleman and his wife, S. R. Coleman to A. J. Monagan on the 15th day of August, A. Monument May be Repaired

Mr. R. L. Fridge, who conducts a marble yard in Mrgnolia, was out here recently, and examined the monument which was erected to the Confederate dead. Which monument, we will take occasion to say, for the 'steenth time, was the first one erected in the South, and for fear of unjust criticism we will state that the corner stone was laid in 1868, and we know where it is laying or lying, as the case may be, which the which the editor is not.

Mr. Fridge has hopes of repairing this Monument in Liberty, but we fear he only has hopes, for "they always told us it took Money to make the old nag perambulate; and Mr. Fridge has been here" before many a time, many a time.

It takes money to put that Monument in good condition, and we will never get it by sending it off to Shiloh and other places. We have no objections to our people contributing to the Shiloh Memorial our fathers and other close relatives received their baptism of fire there, and covered themselves with Glory and Mud, and some Blood, as did quite a number of their friends; but we believe charity begins at home, and if you contribute to one contribute to the other. If every relative of every Confederate Veteran were to contribute a few cents (all that the Shiloh people asked) we not only could have this Monument repaired, but it would be as tall as the historic youngster thought Alexander the Great to be.

However, a few years the Monument will have fallen down and will not need repair, which will be a relief to those people who desire to contribute, but will not; and then we can refer to it as being the remnant of what was "The first monument erected to the Confederate dead." Some what like the ruins of the Coliseum at Rome as it were.

Perhaps, dear erratic reader, you wonder if ye editor has contributed anything! Yes, we have spent far more money for that Monument and yard than we have for clothes this year. Go thou, and do likewise. If any one should, by some accident, want to send any money for this, send to Hon. Geo. A. McGehee.

STOP! READ! SAVE MONEY!

Less than a year ago, the State Department of Agriculture published a notice headed, "Throwing away good money", calling on the people to watch the guarantee tag on cotton seed meal when buying. There is more reasons at present why this should be done than there was when the first notice was printed.

Cotton seed is bringing a good price and of course cotton seed meal is correspondingly high. "Prime" meal is offered by mills on the day this notice is written, in car lots, at $30.00 per ton f. o. b. mills. "High" grade meal would then be worth $35.00 if any was offered.

But here is the point to which especial attention is called. The law allows the manufacturer to put up a low grade meal and label it "Cotton seed feed". It was a mistake to do this, but the law authorizes it and it is being extensively done.

"Prime" meal contains 39 per cent of protein the valuable feedings constituent, while the "feed" contains only about half as much. It looks like cotton seed meal, although great quantities of hills have been ground into it.

If "prime" meal is worth $30.00 per ton in car lots, cotton seed feed guaranteeing 20 per cent of protein is worth only $16.00 per ton, although it is selling on the market for from $1.00 to $3.00 less than prime meal and the people are blindly throwing away good money when they buy and use it.

The manufactures of this feed are within the law, labeling on the tags cotton seed feed and guaranteeing the feedings constituents, protein, fat, and carbohydrates. If feeders are to protect themselves, they must watch the tags on the sacks, and the press is again asked to aid in emphasizing the importance of doing this.

Remember that "prime" cotton seed meal contains 39 per cent of protein. Makes this the base for values on "Cotton seed feed" offered. If the feed guarantees 20 per cent of protein, it is worth about one-half the prevailing price of prime cotton seed meal.

The state Department is using every endeavor to protect feeders in the purchase of their feeds, but the interest and co-operation of the feeders themselves is absolutely necessary if the protection is to be effective.

The President to Marry Soon

Wyttheville, Va., Oct. 7.—The announcement of the engagement of Mrs. Edith Galt, of Washington D. C. to President Wilson, was not unexpected by her many former friends in Wyttheville, where she was born and reared. Mrs. Galt is a woman of great beauty and charm, and is the fourth daughter of the late Judge William H. Bolling. There were eleven children in the family, nine of whom are living.

The bride-to-be is the first cousin of Dr. Rudolph Teusler, the famous surgeon, who has charge of the Episcopal Hospital in Tokio, Japan.

She also is a niece by marriage of the late Gen. James G. Field, of Gordonville, and a grand-niece of the late Gen. William Terry last commander of the famous brigade and at one time a member of Congress.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 7.—Mrs. Edith Bolling Galt, President Wilson's fiancée, was at one time student in the famous Powell School for girls, now closed, in Richmond, and was a belle and beauty as a girl, her family connection giving her entry to the best circles in Virginia. She is of the branch of the English royalist Bolling family which traces descent from the Indian princess, Pocahontas, who was married to John Rolfe.—Clarion Ledger.

Congratulations to both.

PROTECTION FOR THE TREES

It often happens in erecting wire fencing that one or more valuable shade trees are found to be in direct line with the posts, thereby necessitating a fastening of the wire to the tree. Ordinarily, if the tree is of only little value, the trunk is slightly hewed and the wire is fastened directly to the tree but as this method is ver damaging to the tree, it is seldom used where the value of the tree is considered.

Wire fastened directly to the tree soon becomes over grown with bark, and not only damages the tree, but the wire coming in contact with the acid of the trees, is also damaged. This can be averted by using a strip of lumber between the fence and the tree. Nail a strip of lumber about five inches wide to the tree and fasten the fence to this. This method of fastening does not injure the tree or the wire, and when the fence is removed the wire does not have to be cut at the tree, as when it is fastened directly to the tree and over grown.

The postal authorities at Washington, recognizing the ability of postmasters to make mistakes in getting letters in the wrong boxes have fixed a penalty of $200 on persons taking mail out of an office and not returning it immediately.

This law also includes newspapers. The excuse that it is the postmaster's fault cuts no ice. If you have been getting other people's mail you had better take warning or you may get yourself in trouble.

An order of the postoffice Department which took effect Sept. 1st, provides that fourth class mail shall not be registered, but may be insured against loss in any amount equivalent to the actual value, but not to exceed $5 in any one case, on payments of a fee of 3 cents; not to exceed $25 on payment of fee of 6 cents; not to exceed $50 on payment of a fee of 10 cents; or not to exceed $100 on a payment of a fee of 25 cents, in addition to the postage.—Kentwood Commercial.
